Notice of General Meeting

1. Introduction

This Circular contains notice of the Company's GM, at which the Directors are, inter alia from the shareholders to (i) adopt the New Investing Policy; (ii) proceed with the Share change the name of the Company; (iv) renew the authority to issue new shares; (v) sus Provisions; and (vi) adopt the Amended and Restated Articles and Amended and Restated

2. Background to and reasons for the New Investing Policy

The Company is proposing to update its Investing Policy to reflect more transparently how long-term shareholder value is actually created under the Company's strategy. The Board by the track record of the most successful late-stage technology investors, is that appreciation comes from a small number of high-conviction positions in category-definir from broad diversification across 40-50 holdings of roughly 2% each, which tends to dilut benchmark-like outcome without materially improving the underlying risk profile. The companies genuinely capable of sustained global market leadership (such as SpaceX, Databricks, Stripe and a handful of comparable peers) is, by definition, narrow. The B shareholders are therefore best served by the New Investing Policy that allows the exposure to those types of businesses with conviction rather than suppressing position si diversification.

The Company will primarily source investments through:

- in-kind contribution structures, whereby existing holders of private company shar securities into the Company in exchange for newly issued shares of the Company;
- direct secondary market purchases of private company shares from existing sharel
- co-investment arrangements with strategic partners, anchor investors, or co-spons
- primary subscriptions in financing rounds.

As announced by the Company on 9 February 2026, the Company is seeking to com equity issues of a minimum of US$100 million comprising in-kind and cash investments phase. The new equity issue is now expected to be completed in the next quarter. The Bo is scope for the Company's investment model to facilitate further equity issues materiall level and has ambitions to grow its NAV to over US$1 billion.

The New Investing Policy also reflects the practical mechanics of portfolio constru Investment Period, the portfolio will, by design, be concentrated in one or a handful investments are progressively made through in-kind contributions, secondary purch subscriptions. The New Investing Policy therefore expressly permits single-asset weightin net asset value until the expiry of the Investment Period, tapering thereafter to a 50% limi measured at-cost immediately after any single new investment. Critically, this concentra decline structurally over time as (i) further high-conviction investments are added to the p holdings mature toward liquidity events, IPOs, strategic sales and secondary disposals, en realisations and redeployment of proceeds, and (iii) successive equity raises provide a investment into new opportunities, mechanically reducing the weight of any dominant positi

The AIM Rules do not impose any mandatory diversification threshold on investing compa Shareholders are advised to exercise caution when considering the New Investing Policy in a highly concentrated profile in terms of size, holding and nature of the Company's futu particular, Shareholders are asked to consider the non-exhaustive list of risk factors set deciding whether to approve the New Investing Policy at the General Meeting.

Current Investing Policy

The current Investing Policy, as set out in the Company's circular to Shareholders dated 1 as follows:

1) The Company has an indefinite life, is sector-agnostic, and is primarily focused on and mid / late-stage technology investments with a lesser weighting on earlier stage techno The overarching objective of the Company is generating long-term capital gains for its s

2) The Company will seek the best risk-adjusted returns globally, with a preference for c United States, Europe, and Asia.

3) The Company will primarily take direct stakes in private companies, either through ca through issuing its own shares as consideration. It may also invest through indirect st but not limited to special purpose vehicles) and in listed securities, futures, Exchan Money Market Funds, over-the-counter traded securities, currencies, convertible contracts and contractual obligations or similar such assets. The Company could positions in such assets.

4) At the time of entering into any investment, the Company shall ensure that such in represent more than 20% of the Company's net asset value immediately follo transaction, except while the Company's net asset value is less than $100m. There number of investments the Company may undertake.

5) With respect to early-stage investments, the Company shall ensure that, on a cum investments do not represent more than 25% of the Company's net asset value immed relevant transaction.

6) There are no restrictions on the duration for which the Company may hold any inve timeframe within which the Company must make its investments. There are no Company's ability to realise or sell any of its investment portfolio at any time.

7) The Company will pursue a predominantly passive management strategy. However, basis, it may seek to secure additional governance rights-such as observer or board a circumstances or specific assets justify enhanced oversight.

8) The Company may utilise gearing when appropriate, applying it selectively and prude market conditions, liquidity, and investor expectations.

9) Where the Company issues its own shares as consideration for interests in other com

6. Partial Suspension of Takeover Provisions

The Takeover Provisions currently require any person who acquires a beneficial interest 30% or more of the Company's voting rights or, if already holding between 30% and ! additional interest to extend a mandatory offer to all remaining shareholders. Whilst the I that the Takeover Provisions serve an important protective function for minority sharel concluded that, in the context of the Company's New Equity Issuance and the impleme Investing Policy, the Takeover Provisions would likely lead to additional and uncerta completing new investments. In particular, the obligation to make a mandatory offer, or s such requirement, may deter otherwise suitable investors from participating in any Nev thereby constraining the Company's ability to raise capital on attractive terms and to Investing Policy effectively.

Accordingly, the Directors are seeking Shareholders' approval to grant the Board authority months from the effective date of the Amended and Restated Articles (the "Suspension P the Takeover Provisions in connection with any New Equity Issuance settled by way of i that would otherwise trigger the mandatory offer obligation. Any such suspension would b Board only after consultation with the Company's nominated adviser and would be limit circumstances of the relevant New Equity Issuance. For the avoidance of doubt, the Take otherwise remain in full force and effect during the Suspension Period in respect of any Ne settled by way of cash or purchase of existing shares and will automatically resume transactions upon its expiry. Subject to Shareholders' approval of the suspension of the T as described above, Article 46 of the Articles will also be amended to incorporate the suspend the Takeover Provisions in respect of New Equity Issuances where the conside contribution during the Suspension Period.

Shareholders should note that the exercise of this authority will remove, in respect c Issuance which is specifically settled by way of in-kind contribution, a protection that w available to them. The Board is mindful of this and wishes to draw Shareholders' attenti safeguards that it intends to apply in connection with any New Equity Issuance in respect decides to exercise its discretion to suspend the Takeover Provisions:

a) Nominated adviser consultation: the Board will consult with the Company's nomina exercising the suspension authority in respect of any New Equity Issuance.

b) Investor due diligence: the Company will conduct appropriate due diligence and al Advisor to conduct appropriate due diligence, on any prospective new investor whose New Equity Issuance would, but for the suspension, trigger the mandatory offer obliga assessing the suitability of that investor and the potential impact of their shareholdin and its shareholders.

c) Relationship agreement: where any individual shareholder would, following comp Equity Issuance, hold 20% or more of the Company's issued share capital, the B consideration as to whether to require that shareholder to enter into a relationship a Company prior to or contemporaneously with the relevant New Equity Issuance. Such be intended to ensure, amongst other things, that the Company is capable of carryi independently of that shareholder, that transactions and arrangements between the shareholder (and their associates) are conducted at arm's length and on normal com that the shareholder does not take any action to circumvent the proper application of th

d) Continued AIM Rules compliance: notwithstanding the suspension of the Take respect of a specific New Equity Issuance, the Company will continue to comply obligations under the AIM Rules for Companies and other applicable regulations.

The Board considers that the proposed authority strikes an appropriate balance betw Company's investment objectives and preserving adequate protections for Shareholders d 18-month period. The Directors will exercise the authority responsibly and only where they the best interests of the Company and its Shareholders as a whole. 3. Investment Strategy and Approach

The Company will pursue a concentrated, high-conviction investment strategy. The that exceptional risk-adjusted returns are best achieved through focused positions in of businesses with compelling growth profiles, rather than broad diversification.

The Company will primarily source investments through:

- in-kind contribution structures, whereby existing holders of private company sh those securities into the Company in exchange for newly issued shares of the C

- direct secondary market purchases of private company shares from existing sh
- co-investment arrangements with strategic partners, anchor investors, or co-sp
- primary subscriptions in financing rounds.

Investments are intended to be held on a medium-to-long-term basis (typically 3- realisation expected through IPO, strategic sale, or secondary market disposal. The (subject to a fixed life and is not required to return capital to shareholders within any def unless the Board determines otherwise.

The Company will pursue a predominantly passive management strategy. However, case basis, it may seek to secure additional governance rights - such as obs appointments - where circumstances or specific assets justify enhanced oversight.

4. Concentration and Diversification

The Company operates a deliberately concentrated investing policy and does n mandatory minimum diversification requirement.

4.1 Single-Asset Concentration

The Company's investment strategy is focused on building a concentrated portfolio of a select group of primarily private, late-stage companies that the Board believes are be achieve global market leadership. While the Company aims over time to hold a divers such investments, the Board recognises that the universe of companies with the pote or sustain that level of scale is extremely narrow - with businesses such as Sp Anthropic, Databricks and Stripe representing the clearest candidates at this time.

Accordingly, the Company's approach prioritises maximising exposure to these selec even where this results in a highly concentrated portfolio. During the Investment Perio is permitted to commit up to 75% of its net asset value to a single company, security This window is intended to accommodate in-kind contribution transactions and construction, during which time the Company expects to be actively building its broa portfolio alongside any dominant single position. Annex B - Key Risk Factors

The risk factors described herein are not exhaustive. They represent certain factors tha currently believes to be material. However, there may be other risks that are not lis could have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, financial condi operations, and prospects. Additional risks and uncertainties not currently known to th that the Company currently deems to be immaterial, may also materially and adve business operations. The risks and uncertainties described below are not the only one faces. The ordering of the risk factors does not reflect the likelihood of their occurrenc magnitude of their potential impact.

1. Shareholder Concentration Risk

In the early stages of implementing the New Investing Policy, the Company's shareholc become highly concentrated, in particular where new capital is raised through in-kind where anchor investors acquire significant positions as part of the initial deployme Investing Policy. A high degree of shareholder concentration may result in one or mo exercising disproportionate influence over the Company's affairs, including in appointment and removal of Directors, the approval of significant transactions, an dividend policy and capital allocation.

The Board intends to seek appropriate structural protections for minority share practicable, including through the negotiation of relationship agreements with any share or controlling, 20% or more of the Company's issued share capital. Such agreements impose obligations on the relevant shareholder to ensure that transactions between th and the Company are conducted at arm's length and on normal commercial terms anc taking action that would restrict the Company's ability to operate independently. Howev no assurance that the Board will, in all circumstances, be able to negotiate such prote counterparty will agree to terms that are sufficiently robust, or that, even where such a in place, they will prove effective in practice. Shareholders should be aware that t inadequacy of such protections may materially adversely affect the interests of minority

2. Investment Concentration Risk

The Company's New Investing Policy is, by design, one of focused and selective cap rather than broad portfolio diversification. This means that, at any given time and in p the initial phase of implementing the strategy when the number of investee companie limited, the Company's portfolio may be concentrated in a small number of pos circumstances, the underperformance, financial difficulty, or failure of any single inv could have a material and disproportionate adverse effect on the Company's ne earnings, and prospects.

The Board considers focused investment to be integral to the strategy and does not int the portfolio to the extent that would materially dilute the quality or conviction of indi Accordingly, concentration risk is expected to persist over the medium term and is feature of the early deployment phase alone. Investors should carefully consider w profile of a concentrated, focused investment strategy is consistent with their c objectives and risk appetite. The Company does not intend to mitigate concentratio diversification, and prospective investors should not assume that such mitigation will be

3. Dilution Risk - Share Allotments, Disapplied Pre-emption Rights, and In-Kind C

The Company may, from time to time, seek shareholder approval to allot new o including on a non-pre-emptive basis, in connection with cash fundraises and investments by way of in-kind contribution. Where pre-emption rights are disap shareholders will not have the right to participate in such issuances on a pro rata b proportionate interests in the Company including their economic interest, voting rights, to distributions will be diluted accordingly.

Pursuant to the proposed Resolutions, the Company is seeking shareholder approva 93% of its existing issued share capital in order to implement its New Investing Policy. would enable the Company to issue new equity on a non-pre-emptive basis. The succe the Company's strategy will result in existing shareholders being heavily diluted as a re equity issuances from the New Equity Issuances.

Whilst the Board has indicated that it will give consideration to the conduct of appropriate circumstances, there is no obligation on the Company to do so, and any su be subject to conditions, including minimum subscription thresholds, timing a requirements, which may not always be capable of fulfilment. Shareholders should n they will be afforded the opportunity to participate in future fundraises on terms institutional or other investors. The extent of dilution in any individual fundraise will number of shares issued, the issue price, and the prevailing market conditions at the tir significant.

4. Takeover Provisions - Risk of Partial Suspension and Acquisition of a Contr Without a Mandatory Offer Obligation

The Company is subject to the Takeover Provisions. Under the Takeover Provisions, a acquires an interest in shares which, taken together with shares already held by tl persons acting in concert with them, carries 30% or more of the voting rights of the normally be required to make a general offer to all remaining shareholders at the highe that person in the preceding 12 months.

The Company is seeking shareholders' approval to allow the Board to suspend the ob investor acquiring Ordinary Shares by way of in-kind contribution to make a manda consulting with its nominated adviser. The Board may seek to use its discretion t Takeover Provisions in connection with in-kind subscriptions where a prospective otherwise be required to make a mandatory offer.

Where the Board do make use of their discretion, an investor making an in-kind co acquire a controlling position in the Company, potentially in excess of 30% of the voting being required to extend an offer to other shareholders. This removes a material prote otherwise be available to minority shareholders. Shareholders who vote in favour of gra such a discretion to suspend the Takeover Provisions with respect to in-kind subscript not vote, should be aware that they may be foregoing the right to receive a mandatory include a premium to the prevailing market price. The Board cannot guarantee that the any such investor acquires its controlling position will reflect fair value for the Company'

5. Time Horizon and Illiquidity of Investments - Uncertainty as to Timing and Returns

The Company's New Investing Policy focuses on investments in private companies a assets. By their nature, such investments have no public market and are subject to transfer. The ability of the Company to realise value from any given investment wi number of factors outside the Company's control, including the financial performanc development of the investee company, prevailing market conditions at the time of any the availability and appetite of potential acquirers or co-investors, and, in some ca approvals.

There can be no certainty as to the timeframe over which any individual investment return, or as to the aggregate return that will ultimately be achieved. Investment holdi be significantly longer than anticipated, and the Company may be required to ho circumstances where a disposal is not commercially attractive or practically achievable should not expect regular realisations or distributions and should regard their inv Company as illiquid in nature. The Company's shares may trade at a discount to net part as a consequence of investors' perceptions of the illiquid and long-dated nature o portfolio.

6. Net Asset Value Calculation - Inherent Uncertainty in the Valuation of I Investments

The Company's net asset value ("NAV") represents the Directors' best estimate of the Company's assets less its liabilities at a given point in time. Where the portfolio compris in private companies and other assets for which no active secondary market exists, th of fair value requires the exercise of significant judgment by the Directors and, where external valuers.

In the absence of quoted market prices or frequent arm's length transactions in the rele valuations will typically be based on recognised methodologies, including compa multiples, discounted cash flow analyses, and recent transaction prices. Each of these is subject to inherent limitations and requires assumptions, as to earnings, growth rates, and market comparables, which may prove incorrect. Moreover, valuatio companies may only be formally reviewed and updated on an infrequent basis, whet connection with audited accounts or, in some cases, less regularly, meaning that the N the Company at any given time may not reflect subsequent developments in the conditi of the underlying businesses.

Investors should be aware that the NAV per share published by the Company is an es differ materially from the price that would be realised on an actual disposal of investments. Significant adjustments to carrying values may be required following th investee company audits, new financing rounds at divergent valuations, or other va events, and such adjustments may result in material reductions to reported NAV.
